CITIZENS' OPPORTUNITY TO ADDRESS THE CITY COUNCIL/TOWN BOARD

Hearing no objection, Mayor Ali granted privilege of the floor to those citizens wishing to address the City Council/Town Board.

C X Zhang, a citizen of Peoria, asked the Council for clarification regarding Policy Session discussions on supporting local programs with the violence reduction funding.

Samuel Duren, a pastor in the First District of Peoria, said life was precious, and he commented on the Council not approving $25,000.00 for the Cure Violence Assessment when violence was increasing in the community. He said he supported evidence-based programs carried out in an ethically and legally responsive manner, and he asked everyone to work together towards viable solutions.

Reverend Benjamin Nicks Jr., a pastor in Peoria, said he was calling the Council to action. He said he witnessed violence and the aftermath in Peoria, and the largest hurdle was inaction. He asked the Council to consider alternative solutions and allow non-profit organizations to take the lead and determine the best use of funds.

Sherry Cannon, a citizen of Peoria, asked the Council to consider the qualifications and requirements of organizations applying for funding or grants, noting some small nonprofits that were doing good work in the City might miss some of the criteria. She finished by reading a quote from Linda Thompson.

Devon Sydnor, a citizen of Peoria, said he was frustrated with the politics getting in the way of progress. He said Police Chief Echevarria was hired to address crime and violence in the City, but the Council voted down initiatives he proposed. He said it was important to work together.

Shontah Means, a citizen of Peoria, said she was a victim of violence and she read a poem for the Council.

Pastor Harvey Burnett, a pastor in Peoria, said he witnessed violence in the streets of Peoria and how it effected citizens and families. He said he wanted to call the Council to action in benefit of the community, and he discussed the demographics of victims of violence in Peoria. He reviewed Council discussions at previous meetings concerning the Safety Network and Cure Violence, noting collaboration was needed to succeed in identifying alternative solutions.
